

Boy Scout Advancement

- RANKS—There are seven ‘ranks’, from ‘Scout’ to ‘Eagle’. [The ‘Scout’ rank is new as of 2016, replacing the former ‘Scout Badge’, which was not a rank.]
- INITIATIVE—The troop will strongly help Scouts with their early advancement, expecting them to show increasing initiative and independence as they advance.
- WHO SIGNS?—Most requirements must be signed off by other Scouts, by uniformed adult leaders, or by approved adult merit badge counselors.
- SCOUT RANK—A new Scout should earn the Scout rank during his first month, especially if he already has the Arrow of Light award from Cub Scouts.
 - ➔ Requirement 3a—T97 has a temporary New Scout patrol (Dragon); 3 ‘regular’ patrols (Fox, Phoenix, Tree), and a senior patrol for older Scouts (Stealth).
 - ➔ Requirement 6—BSA Cyber Chip requirements (done with parent) are at: www.scouting.org/cyberchip.aspx.
- TENDERFOOT—A new Scout should earn Tenderfoot soon after his first campout. NOTE the 30-day fitness requirement, which he should begin work on at his first meeting!

Key Requirements for Each Rank

(Note that this is NOT a complete list of all requirements for each rank)

	Scout 	Tenderfoot 	Second Class 	First Class 	Star 	Life 	Eagle
Minimum Time to Earn	1 meeting	30 days since joining	about 2 months since Tenderfoot	about 3 months since Second Class	4 months since First Class	6 months since Star	6 months since Life
Typical Time to Earn (average)	2–4 meetings	1–3 months since joining	about 4 months since Tenderfoot; 6 months since joining	about 6 months since Second Class; 1 year since joining	about 10 months since First Class; 2 years since joining	about 14 months since Star; 3 years since joining	about 20 months since Life; 5 years since joining
 Requirements potentially taking the most time	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • memorize Oath, Law, Motto, Slogan, Outdoor Code • earn Cyber Chip for your grade 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • 30-day fitness 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • cooking • 4-week fitness • map & compass • swimming 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • cooking • 4-week fitness • orienteering • swimming 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Eagle-required merit badges • earn Cyber Chip for your grade 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Eagle-required merit badges 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Eagle-required merit badges • service project
Outdoor Activities	—	1 overnight in a tent	3 outdoor activities since joining, including 2 overnights in a tent *	6 outdoor activities since joining, including 3 overnights in a tent *	active	active	active
Fitness	—	30 days	4 weeks	4 weeks	active	active	active
Service	—	1 hour	2 hours	3 hours	6 hours	6 hours (min. 3 hrs conservation-related)	major project
Leadership	—	teach square knot using EDGE	—	invite non-Scout to join	4 months	6 months	6 months
Merit Badges from the Eagle List	—	—	—	—	4	total of 7	total of 13
Additional Merit Badges	—	—	—	—	2	total of 4	total of 8
Total Merit Badges	—	—	—	—	6	11	21

* For Second Class & First Class outdoor requirements, ALL campouts since joining count.

Advancement Guidelines

Purpose—The rank advancement system (one of Scouting’s eight “methods”) teaches Scouts the necessary basic skills, and helps them develop leadership and initiative.

Who Signs off the Requirements—Scouts learn leadership (another of the eight methods) in part by teaching skills to other Scouts. Basic skills are taught by other Scouts and the troop’s uniformed adult leaders. Merit badges are taught by adult counselors, drawn mostly from our troop parents. It’s good for a Scout to learn to approach others for help with advancement.

The Parts of Each Rank

Basic Skills—The first four ranks (Scout, Tenderfoot, Second Class, First Class) are composed mostly of basic Scouting skills and experience. Although these skills focus mostly on outdoor requirements, they help develop initiative, independence, and leadership.

Merit Badges—About 135 merit badges focus on a wide range of interests, some of which may lead to lifelong hobbies or vocations. Scouts may earn merit badges any time they want, although no merit badges are required for the first four ranks. We sometimes offer merit badge classes (Swimming, for example), but a Scout can (and should) find a buddy and earn badges himself by checking with our Scoutmaster to find out who the counselor is. If a Scout meets with a counselor outside of a troop meeting, remember that he should have a buddy or parent with him (no private one-on-one meetings between an adult and a Scout per BSA policy). For Star, Life, and Eagle, a Scout must earn a certain number of the 17 Eagle-required merit badges plus his choice of additional merit badges.

Leadership—Younger Scouts will begin to learn leadership in the course of their Scouting activities. For the higher ranks (Star, Life, Eagle), Scouts are required to hold one or more leadership positions for a certain period of time. These responsibilities are listed with the rank requirements.

Service—Service to others is a valuable trait, and all ranks after Scout require a certain number of hours of service to others. Scouts can (and should) do service on the own (buddy system, of course), and both the troop and our Eagle Scout candidates organize some group projects. Eagle Scout candidates are required to plan and lead a significant service project for the community.

Scoutmaster Conference—For every rank, a Scout asks one of the uniformed adult leaders to discuss with him his progress and plans for advancement and for Scouting.

Board of Review—For every rank except Scout and Eagle, a Scout asks the troop advancement coordinator (or the Scoutmaster) to set up a board of review after he has completed all other requirements for the rank. The board consists of about three committee members or parents (but not the Scoutmaster or Assistant Scoutmasters), who will review his performance, help him with any weak areas, and encourage him to continue his success. This is a good experience for Scouts to learn to relate to adults. Note that the Scout rank doesn’t have a board of review (the badge is earned when the Scoutmaster Conference is completed). The Eagle Scout board of review is conducted by the Longs Peak Council’s Eagle advancement coordinator for our district.

Aims and Methods

Aims of Boy Scouting

- Character Development
- Citizenship Training
- Physical, Emotional, and Mental Fitness

Methods of Boy Scouting

The Troop Leader Guidebook compares the eight methods to an eight-cylinder engine: "When all eight pistons are firing, the car moves powerfully yet smoothly toward its destination. When a few pistons get fouled, the car lurches haltingly along. When only one or two pistons are firing, you might as well get out and walk." It is the combination of all eight methods that makes Scouting unique.

- Adult Association
- Advancement
- Ideals
- Leadership Development
- Outdoors
- Patrol Method
- Personal Growth
- Uniform